

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE:

A method of locating user equipment in a communication network during handover. The method includes requesting the location of the user equipment which is communicating on a first channel and initiating the determination of the location of the user equipment, and handing over the user equipment for communicating on a second channel. The determination of the location of the user equipment is suspended until the handing over has been completed.